Judge Cox's Joke.

Kate Kane, the Milwaukee law-yeress is still in dress and says she will never, never, never pay a fine for throwing water in Judge Mallery's face.

P. S.: Never.

The water throwing episode in Milwaukee calls to mind an incident which happened years ago on the Comstock. Bob Taylor, the lawyer, used to sit with his back up against Judge Cox's desk in the Justice Court. One day Cox upset a bottle of ink and the contents went down the back of Taylor's neck. The latter sprung up in a rage, with:

"What the devil do you mean by pouring water down my neck?"

"I poured no water down your neck, sir. I deny that I poured any water down your neck!"

"It could have come from no where else. I'll bet you ten dollars that I can prove it by every man in the room!"

The Court carelessly threw down a ten dollar piece, which Taylor covered to be informed that the liquid which so bothered his back was Arnold's ink.

Barn Burned.

Yesterday morning about half-past ten o'clock a barn caught fire at Little's ranch, about two miles from town, and in an hour was totally destroyed. Beside the barn a large quantity of hay and grain, also several wagons and carriages and sets of harness were destroyed. The loss is over $5,000.

SOMETHING FOR SOLDIERS.

How to Recover Claims for Services Rendered During the Wars.

The following Act of Congress is published for the information of all persons in this State interested therein:

An Act to extend the time of filing claims for horses and equipments lost by officers and enlisted men in the service of the United States, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the time for filing claims for horses and equipments lost by officers and enlisted men in the military service of the United States, which expired by limitation on the thirty-first day of December, eighteen hundred and seventy-five, be, and are hereby, extended to one year from and after the passage of this Act; and that all such claims filed in the proper department before the passage of this Act shall be deemed to have been filed in due time, and shall be considered and decided without refiling.

Sec. 2. That all claims arising under the Act approved March third, eighteen hundred and forty-nine, entitled "An Act to provide for the payment of horses and other property lost or destroyed in the military service of the United States," and all acts amendatory thereof, which shall not be filed in the proper department within one
this Act, shall be forever barred, and shall not be received, considered or audited by any department of the Government.

It is known that many persons resident in this State who served in the various Indian wars, as well as the war of 1861 to 1865, lost their private horses and equipments in such service. The Act above quoted gives all such persons one year within which to file their claims for such losses. Attention is called to the following provisions of this law:

1st. Losses in any of the Indian wars in this or any other States or Territories will be paid, as well as losses in the war of 1861 to 1865.

2d. Losses by officers, enlisted men, scouts, guides, and all other persons actually engaged in the military service, are included within the provisions of this law.

3d. This law extends to losses in any manner not the result of the soldier's own negligence. This includes losses in battle, by capture, for want of forage, by overheating, hard usage, accidents of all sorts, disease, theft by deserters, from forced marches, or from any other cause arising in the line of military duty.

4th. The time of filing these claims expires January 8th, 1884.
All such claims not presented to the proper department of the United States, by that date, will be forever barred; but, if the application is filed prior to January 6th, 1884, the proof necessary to complete the claim may be filed at any date thereafter.

5th.—A. B. Webb, attorney at law and collector of claims, will give his special attention to this class of claims, and who may be addressed through postoffice box No. 584, Washington, D. C., in regard to all matters of detail pertaining thereto, but proper blanks for this purpose will be furnished upon application.

That Competing Line.

A new Pacific railroad enterprise backed by English capital is reported as having been organized.
It is called the United States Central Railroad, and is to be extended from Denver to San Francisco—about 1,200 miles. The stock will be issued at $50,000 per mile and $40,000 in bonds. Seven railroad charters in different States and Territories have been secured by the promoters of this new scheme, who intend to consolidate all of them. The country through which it is proposed to run this line is rich in mineral and timber. Work on the road is to commence this spring.—[Salt Lake Tribune.]

The Land Problem.

The APPEAL will publish on Sunday next from a leading lawyer of this State an argument against Henry George's theory of allowing the Government to own and rent all land within its borders. The article will be well worth perusal and will be the first of a series on this subject.

Senator Marker is improving and will probably pull through.

TEWKSBURY.

Tewksbury is the spot, Where New England's panper lot, Were slaughtered without reason or propriety;
Where the sleek, religious knaves Dumped the infants in their graves Near the center of their learning and society.

The headboards rose in air, But the bodies were not there Awaiting the tramp of resurrection;
For the lame and halt and old,
Had every one been sold, And freighted to the doctors for dissection.

The ailing and the sickly, Were deadened mighty quickly, For corpses, you see, brought 'em double;
And they tanned a woman's hide,
And many things beside,
That resulted in an awful pile of trouble.

The Governor, old Ben,
The most absurd of men, Said "The Marshes ain't the people to be trusted;
For my country and my State, This nuisance I'll abate," And the preachers in the pulpit were disgusted.

For Butler had the sand, And a willing heart and hand, "My hold on this disgrace will not lose its Grip while I am still The Boss of Beacon Hill And rule the Commonwealth of Massachusetts."

High Priced.

An actor contemplating a suit for divorce asked a lawyer what the retaining fee would be.

"One hundred and fifty dollars," said the disciple of Blackstone.

"That's pretty high priced, isn't it?"

"Yes, I usually ask but fifty."

"But why do you charge me three times as much as any other man?"

"Because," returned the astute expounder of Coke, "when I undertake a divorce case for an actor, I generally find he has three times as many wives as any other man."— [Charley Goodwin, in the Salt Lake Tribune.]

A Draped Locomotive.

"To me," the sad passenger said, "there is something inexpressibly mournful in a draped locomotive, especially so, when it is draped in mourning for a dead engineer.
The President of a railway company stands a long way from the engine, and when he dies the engine mourns as we sorrow for a rich uncle, whom we never saw, and left us nothing. But the man who was a part of the engine's life, who spurred her up the long, steep, climbing mountain grades, and coaxed her around dizzy curves and sent her down the long level stretches with the flight of an arrow, who knew how to humor all her caprices, and coaxed and petted and urged her through blinding storms and rayless nights, and blistering heat and stinging cold, until engine and engineer seemed to be body and soul of one existence —then when this man gets his final orders, and crosses the dark river alone, with only the fadeless lights of sure and eternal promise gleaming brightly on the other side, and when there is a new man on the right hand side and the face looks out of the engineer's window, then I think I can see profound and sincere sorrow in the panting spirit of power, standing in the station draped with fluttering sable emblems of its woe, waiting for the caressing touches of the dead hands that will never feel again. And the engineers tell me that for days and days the engine is fretful under the new hands; it is restless and moody; starts off nervously and impatiently sometimes and then drops into a sullen gait and loses time; that no man gets as much out of an engine as its own engineer."

"Do you remember only a year or two ago," the jester said, "only last Summer, I believe it was, an engineer on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, running west from Chicago, died on his engine? Died right in his place, running between Galesburg and Monmouth, and sat there with his hand on the lever, and his sightless eyes staring glassily down the track, unnoticed until the fireman looked up to see why he did not whistle for Monmouth station. And how many miles that train had thundered along with the dead engineer looking out of the cab window into eternity, no one knew and no one knows.—Denver Inter-Ocean.

The Concert To-Night.

This evening Miss Wederkinch will take a benefit at the Opera House. So far the demand for reserved seats has not been as large as it should be. The young lady is a comparative stranger in the city and a finished musician. Aside from this she is assisted by an efficient corps of local vocalists, and anyone who can scan the list of names and decline to pay 50 cents to hear the programme rendered has either a small ear for music or a big regard for a half dollar.
